FIFTH TEST MATCH

Australia Make Bad
Start

BUT RECOVER AFTER LUNCH

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY]

SYDNEY, Feb. 23.
Australia made a disastrous start in the Fifth Test to-day, the wickets of Woodfull, Bradman and Richardson falling before lunch for 67 runs.

In the afternoon, McCabe and O'Brien played brightly and staged a partial recovery. At tea the score stood at 183 for 4 wickets, 116 runs having been added. Fifteen thousand were present in dull, overcast weather to witness the start and there was some enthusiasm when it was learned that Woodfull had once again won the toss, making the fourth time in the five matches, and had elected to bat.

The teams are:—

Australia.
Woodfull, Richardson, Bradman, O'Brien, McCabe, Darling, Lee, Oldfield, Alexander, O'Reilly, Iremonger.

England.
Jardine, Wyatt, Allen, Sutcliffe, Hammond, Leyland, Ames, Verity, Paynter, Larwood, Voce.

Richardson was caught by Jardine off Larwood, the first score appearing on the board being No. 10, One Wicket.

The fifth ball of Larwood's first over secured his dismissal. Larwood was bowling in the orthodox off-theory fashion and Richardson was nibbling. He attempted to cut Larwood's fifth ball and was taken in the slips.

Voce was bowling over the wicket and Larwood reverted to the leg theory in his fifth over.

10 Runs in One Over.

Bradman, playing in his first Test Match at Sydney, scored ten runs off Allen's first over and then sent Hammond flashing to the boundary through the covers twice in the same over.

Fifty runs appeared on the board after 62 minutes play, Woodfull being very restrained.

Double Dismissal.

Nine runs later, Larwood was put on in place of Voce and with his fifth ball, exploiting the leg theory, he bowled Woodfull off his pads. Woodfull had made 14 runs in 69 minutes.

In the next over, Larwood bowled Bradman rattling his leg stump. Bradman had made 48 runs, obtained in 71 minutes. The innings was rather fluky. Bradman was never sure of himself and obtained his runs by unorthodox methods, a mixture of brilliancy and mediocrity. He hit seven fours.

At the lunch-interval, McCabe and O'Brien had each obtained one run, the board showing 67 for 3.

Splendid Batting.

An effort to retrieve the disastrous start was made by McCabe and O'Brien in the early afternoon. They faced the bowling confidently and scored with remarkable freedom having regard to the position.

Within an hour of the resumption they had carried the score to 132, adding 65 runs to the lunch total.

O'Brien was doing most of the scoring forcing to the on and square cutting. The partnership put on fifty in 40 minutes and O'Brien reached 50 in 84 minutes. After 154 minutes play, the scoreboard showed 150.

Larwood caught O'Brien fielding at square-leg with the total at 163. He hit 61 runs in 107 minutes, the partnership realising 99 in 100 minutes, slowing down towards the end.

[BRITISH WIRELESS SERVICE]

A SENSATION has been created by the announcement that the Government has removed General O'Duffy from his office as Commissioner of the Civil Guard, which he has held since 1923.

He will be succeeded by Colonel Broy, Chief Superintendent.

Official circles are most reticent concerning the reason, but the removal follows an agitation by the Left Wing of the Fianna Fail.

EYES & EYEBROWS

STUDY YOUR SETTING

When You Buy A New Frock

Dressing to their background, unless it is for the stage, is almost a lost art among modern women. It is well worth while to consider home settings and the other surroundings in which the new frock is going to be seen.

It is amusing to see a woman make a really effective entrance into a crowded room or restaurant, and it is extraordinary how few of us can do this.

As soon as we find ourselves attracting attention we become self-conscious, and are tempted to fidget with our dress and look slightly embarrassed.

A Good Entrance

If you can make a good entrance into a smart restaurant without looking awkward, you can pride yourself that you are more self-poised than nine-tenths of the women there.

You find yourself acutely conscious of your clothes, and unless they are perfect in every detail you are miserable.

Bows are going to be an important feature in the near future, but they must be useful and not merely ornamental. An effective dress for dancing or dinner parties is being made in cyclamen crinkled crepe, trimmed with hyacinth blue velvet. The crepe itself looks as if it had been ironed so that the crinkles are flattened into the merest suggestion of a raised surface. The velvet is used for the wide bands on the short sleeves of the jacket.

Fur, shoulder capes or tiny ermine jackets have hidden our bare backs and shoulders all through the winter, and it looks as if we are going to continue to be equally modest, at any rate during the spring and early summer, for almost all the sleeveless evening dresses are provided with little jackets so match. Often these could easily be mistaken for long sleeved bodices.

THERE was in my youth a rhyme that had to do with eyes and was pointed at vanity. Its moral, so far as I can remember, was to the effect that colour, shape, and size did not matter, for "so long as eyes can see what more have eyes to do."

Now every woman knows that eyes have a great deal more to do than merely see. In fact they have so much to do, so much to see and not to see, that it is little wonder that they are the first features to show signs of age.

Ophthalmic surgeons will tell you that the sight should not be influenced by age much before fifty if reasonable care is taken, but the setting of the eyes is often old beyond the number of the years.

Eye-strain will quickly induce lines and general over-tiredness or lack of condition is reflected at once. If there is any continued sense of discomfort or strain advice should be taken without delay.

For Tired Eyes

A good eye lotion should be used after motoring or riding, and a warm compress, laid on the eyes and secured by a specially designed bandage, will be found to be very restful. It should be used for ten minutes before dressing for dinner if the eyes feel tired.

Cream should be applied to the eye-lids and beneath the eyes with the greatest care. The cream should be spread lightly on the lids from the inside to the outer corner. Close the eyes and stroke in the cream with a very gentle upward movement.

The cream should be applied under the eyes from the bridge of the nose towards the temples with the lightest possible tapping movement. All trace of cream should be carefully removed after ten minutes and the lids gently patted with a pad of cotton wool soaked in a mild skin tonic.

Good lashes and brows add tremendously to the charm of appearance and their growth and shape can be cultivated. A tonic for the lashes and a special nourishing pomade for the brows will soon work wonders.

The tonic should be applied to the tips of the eyelashes with a camel hair brush, and the pomade every night until the desired effect is obtained. Afterwards, occasional use is sufficient. The tonic and the pomade are made by an eminent cosmetician and can be used with perfect safety.

Plucked eyebrows that had the effect of entirely removing all natural expression and substituting one of perpetually startled surprise are mercifully out of fashion. This does not mean, however, that a straggly appearance is permissible. If the brows are too wide or a bad shape they can be plucked into order, and in every case they should be shaped by the use of a tiny brush made for the purpose. If a smear of brilliantine is applied to the brush—so much the better.

Make-up judiciously applied can be a great improvement. A good cosmetic for darkening the lashes is made in light brown, dark brown, black and blue. The dark brown is the best choice for most people for day or evening use.

A Touch of Grease

Below the eyes a hint of grease—the light cream you use for cleaning will be best—will give brilliance, but it must be the merest suggestion.

Eyebrows can be darkened by the use of a pencil, but this should be avoided unless the brows are actually light coloured as the pencil gives a dull appearance.

Eye shadow is effective at night, especially if one of the new scintillating or silvered shadows is used. It should be applied very lightly to the upper lids. Bistre is the best choice for the very fair, blue-eyed types. Grey-blue goes with blue eyes and brown hair, blue for grey eyes and black hair, or for very dark people, and green for green or hazel eyes.

Round The Town

PRETTY THINGS IN LOCAL-SHOPS

We are still hoping for the arrival of Spring and the shops are well prepared for that rush which will come when the sun really begins to shine. There are the most delightful silk dresses and light weight suits, with smart little hats and the new shoes to go with them.

Lane, Crawford are showing some delightful blouses to wear with knitted, light tweed, or silk suits. The hand knitted woollen blouses are particularly fascinating. Most of them have lacy yokes of a very big bold pattern, and short puffed sleeves. Quite new, but not quite so pretty in my opinion, are jumper blouses of knitted lisle thread or silk lisle on similar lines. Though cooler and of course, distinctively 1933 the cotton lisle has not the softness of wool or silk; still one has to sacrifice something to be up to the minute! Then there are the silk blouses, among which there are some very pretty examples of the soft drosy blouse of georgette or crepe de chine and some very smart tailored waistcoat blouses in satin, pique, and crepe. These always look well with a tailor made while the woollen jumper looks its best with a knitted suit.

Another strong print in favour of a visit to Paul Bennett & Co. is that the some-shop houses C. H. Bernard and Sons where you will find British goods for your men folk at equally low prices.

Au Petit Louvre I saw some exceedingly nice afternoon frocks for present wear. I think that this shop must have a particularly clever buyer for I have never seen a single dress there that was not in admirable style. Fairly heavy crepes and marocaines are good this spring usually with a semi-tailored appearance. Strong colour is being used by all the good houses often as a note of emphasis in a dress of some more or less neutral shade. Navy blue, wine and dark green are still much used. Printed chiffons have staged a most triumphant comeback and suede lace is perfect for both afternoon and evening wear.

I do like the new bags to be found Au Petit Louvre, though I can't recall the proper name of the celluloid stuff of which they are made. You can get them in white, black, black and white, and nearly all strong clear colours either used alone, or with black or white. A delightful conceit is the new fashion of lining and fitting them in a matching colour scheme. A black and white bag for instance has a lining half white and half black. Even the little purse inside and the back of the mirror are half and half.

You should look at the frocks. Evening dresses in excellent style and cut are marked at $100, there are a number in the $50 range still good but naturally of less expensive material, and a few simple little frocks of printed silk which would be quite suitable for a young girl, at $12. Very nice afternoon dresses are marked in the region of $50, these are mostly of heavy quality crepe and are well tailored and in good style.

The Dolly Vardon Hat Shop have some more charming summer frocks. Among the latest shipment are a number of semi tailored silk dresses. One of these in a real primrose yellow patterned silk is cut with a deep wrap over skirt and opens right down for washing. Another yellow green silk with black polka dots has a tiny cape to accompany it. Chromium buttons are used to trim many of these silk dresses and a lingerie touch at the neck is often found.

The cotton prints are gay and pretty. Not quite so "fussy" in design as last years prints, they are easier to wear and really more stylish. Flower patterns have given place to small geometric designs, checks, plaids and stripes. I particularly liked a couple of very well cut white cotton frocks with a pin stripe—one pink, the other blue. Both have white vests and are smartly tailored. A dress like this would be admirable for office or street wear in the early warm weather, and a little later in the season when its first freshness had gone through frequent visits to the wash tub, it would do for beach or picnic wear.

These tempting cotton and silk frocks make one long for the sunshine, but most women are not waiting for the sun to come before buying them, and they are leaving the shop almost as fast as they are unpacked.

Some new Spring and Summer shoes have just arrived at Gordon's. The use of linen for footwear is a distinctive note for 1933 and will certainly be a welcome innovation in our climate.

For Spring wear there are low heeled one strap shoes of coloured leather with insets of linen with roman stripes. This sort of shoe would look well with a jumper suit, light tweeds or a heavy silk tailored dress, but would, I think, be a little heavy looking with cotton frocks unless the latter were rather simple (Continued at foot of next column)

The danger of Improper Feeding

BABIES are frequently overfed. Their capacity for food is very small—at birth 1 oz. and at 3 months 3 oz. Remember also it is the amount of food digested that counts. Do not feed Baby just because he cries—probably the reason is indigestion from overfeeding, not hunger. It is important to get the nature of the food right as well as the quantity. ZAMBRENE

WEATHERPROOFS

for WOMEN

The weatherproof quality of "Zambrene" is obtained by a special process applied to the yarn before and after weaving.

The lining is treated in a similar manner, with the result that rain cannot penetrate the fabric except by pressure or friction.

It is equally impervious to dust or wind, but the treatment does not render the cloth "air-proof" nor harden the fabric, so that a "Zambrene" coat is comfortable to wear, as well as hygienically porous.

"Zambrene" Weatherproof are made in London by Zambrene, Ltd., in various ranges of Cotton, Egyptian Cotton, Wool, Wool Unions, and Wool Twists, also "Zambrene," "Saxonia," West of England Coatings and Harris and Donegal Tweeds, etc.

Give Your Knitting The Professional Touch

By AN EXPERT

A PROFESSIONAL knitter, renowned for the skill with which she turns out "Bond-street" garments," said to me recently, "Anybody can knit; but it is the making-up that matters."

Her statement was too sweeping to be accurate. But certainly there are many who can knit well, who can follow knitting directions perfectly, and yet produce garments that have "Home-made" written large upon them.

Actually, there is no secret concerning the process, which transforms an obviously home-made article into one which bears the stamp of the gifted artist, although these details are not generally known—it is one but judges from the ill-fitting jumpers, suits and hats one sees too frequently at present.

FITTING THE GARMENT

Careful pressing of each section of knitting before joining, first-class seaming at the joints, and again careful pressing after the pieces have been sewn together, are things of infinite importance.

Many women wonder why their garments do not sit well, although the actual knitting is quite good and an excellent pattern has been closely followed.

They have simply not taken pains to fit the sections to their own individual measurements. A very simple operation this, for knitting can be stretched to any size within reason after it is cast off. This is done—give an example such as a sleeve—by taking measurements on the length and width at wrist, elbow, and shoulder by chalking such measurements on a sheet of strong paper, thus outlining the shape of the sleeve, and dampening the knitted sleeve to the exact size of the chalked one.

Damp-ironing is pressing the iron on a not too damp cloth placed over the article to be pressed. No doubt this is a little trouble, but it is very much worth while.

In addition, it will be found that woollens so treated, with damp-pressing as the final piece of work on the completed article, will ensure that scarcely any shrinkage will occur when the garment has to be washed.

To join edges of knitted work a crochet hook and simple chain stitch are far better than joining with needle and thread.

Among other professional knitting hints are those which insist on the winding of the wool in a loose ball, slight balls destroying the elasticity; the knitting of a plain row immediately after the stitches are cast on, the needle being inserted in the back of each of the newly-cast-on stitches instead of the front, thus ensuring that the garment will not stretch and lose shape after being worn or washed; and the slipping of the first stitch in each row, to facilitate joining up.

Needles coloured a totally different shade from the wool are to be recommended.

Shetland women are not only expert knitters. They are expert in the art of washing their knitting, which, after all, is of the utmost importance. Their methods may be old-fashioned, but the results justify them.

LAUNDRY SECRETS

Three tubs or basins of equal size are laid alongside one another, and in each there is poured an equal amount of water of the same temperature—say, a large kettleful of boiling water equally divided between the three; this water is reduced in temperature until it is merely tepid, an equal quantity of cold water being used in each case to ensure evenness of temperature.

Soft soap—we would use soap flakes—is dissolved in the first tub, and the garment immersed and gently kneaded in the water therein; quickly it is transferred to the second tub, where soft soap has also been dissolved; lastly it is rinsed in the third tub of clear water.

So clever are the Shetland women at washing woollens that they can make like new a garment that has become hard and matted through bad laundering.

THE MANNEQUIN

FASHION KING OF THE WORLD

Dame fashion is raising her head again.

In half a dozen cities in the world exquisite young women will soon be busy parading day after day the clothes that other women will wear for the next few months before they are "dealt out" by the buyers and salesmen and fashion experts alike.

We begin by being delighted, and we end by being bored.

Imagine day after day of it! Hundreds of frocks to sum up with a glance—cut and quality, cloth and colour.

Long frocks, short frocks, lovely frocks, indifferent frocks.

Red coats, blue coats, yellow, white, and green coats. Hats and scarves and feathers thrown in.

Seated in our wraps we must judge from the sylph-like forms of the superb young beauties who pass before us what dashing little spring suits and tip-tilted straw hats will look like on the short and stout, the tall and angular, the statuesque matron and the blushing debutante alike.

We have to judge which details will be most likely to "take" among the clientele we serve. We have to gauge with the nicest accuracy which garments will please the smart young people of to-day.

We must know which details are likely to be mass-produced within the next few weeks for everybody's wear, and which are likely to remain the exclusive wear of the select few.

Two or three days of it and all frocks look alike.

Men and women, tall and short, fat and thin, pretty and plain, we sit there in judgment.

And the mannequins themselves; what a queenly procession of lovely young women, superbly hipless and chestless, with an inimitable slinky stroll, and enormous lavishly lashed eyes!

Spring Hats

NOW that all the New Year festivities are over and the Parisians who have gone to the winter sports of the Riviera are out of the way, those who are left are turning their eyes and lending their ears to see and hear what the rue de la Paix is going to make for the spring.

Already little secrets leak out of those closed doors, and the milliners, less secretive than the dress-makers—since they change their style more often—are almost communicative if you approach them with tact.

STILL SMALL

Spring hats are to be small, and there is a great variety in materials used—and in the shape of the crowns. Crowns are shallow, draped, or a square telescoped, or drawn to a cuff, and many models are raised at the back by means of trimming, a bandeau, or some sort of little-invisible trick.

This means a tilt over the brow, not necessarily to the nose, but towards one eye, and not too much to one side. Brimmed hats are worn straighter than formerly.

The sailor with a two to two and a half inch brim, turned up behind, or rolled, is slightly raised behind and tilted towards the nose. The little cuff hat is also worn almost straight; and is one of the most popular hats to wear with a tailored coat and skirt.

There is a tendency to look for inspiration from Versailles under Louis XV. and Louis XVI, though this does not mean all the trickeries and Dolly Varden fussiness of those periods.

The hat made of woollen, silken, or cotton materials is likely to be very popular, since soft crowns and brims call for supple materials.

If Gandhi Wins

RETROGRESSION

AND REACTION

GRAVE WARNING BY

SIR A. WATSON

Sir Alfred Watson, the editor of the "Calcutta Statesman," upon whose life two attempts were made in India last year, remarked at a luncheon given in his honour at the National Liberal Club: "I have been fortunate in encountering some of the worst marksmen in the world."

Sir Alfred described Gandhi as the most reactionary force in the world.

"So far as I have been able to grasp his policy," he said, "it spells retrogression of the worst kind. Its only result would be the rapid reduction by starvation and pestilence of the population to one-half its present numbers."

"Mr. Gandhi's dream of an India dressed in loin cloths, living on rice and milk, and spinning a poor kind of cloth might be passed over with a smile as a harmless foible. But behind Mr. Gandhi stand men with altogether different ideals."

"The landowners and the mill-owners who provide the funds of an extensive and aggressive organisation are not contributing in order to destroy the sources of their own wealth."

Down-Trodden Peasantry.

"For them Mr. Gandhi's idealism is a welcome cloak for their dream of an India which they can rule and exploit. There has been enough of that already. If you seek for a chief explanation of unrest in Bengal, you will find it in an absentee landlordism that bleeds the peasant and denies him his natural leadership."

Sir Alfred remarked that there was nothing more pathetic in the realm of human error than the spectacle he had seen of an English Labour M.P. entertained in the home of his Congress host, which cost £15,000 to build, driven through the streets of Calcutta in a six-cylinder car belonging to his host, and yet leaving India under the impression that he had been conversing with something corresponding with Labour ideals in this country.

"MOST DANGEROUS GAME"

TWO ADVENTUROUS STARS AT THE CENTRAL

For several years the names of Marian C. Cooper and Ernest B. Schoedsack on a motion picture signified a film crammed with adventure and thrills.

Their pictures, "Grass," "Chang," and "Four Feathers," were among the screen spectacles that shattered box-office records. Now the globe-trotting pair have in Hollywood produced for RKO-Radio, "The Most Dangerous Game," which will open at the Central Theatre on Saturday.

It is appropriate that after their other films which showed the struggles of animals for life in the jungle, their new picture tells the converse story of the hunter-hunted. "The Most Dangerous Game" is a weird tale of a half-crazed Russian nobleman who invents a new game—the most dangerous of all. A hunt-

"FORGOTTEN COMMANDMENTS"

GENE-RAYMOND'S STRIKING PERFORMANCE

Gene Raymond, former Broadway stage star, now plays his third and most important talkie role as Paul, young modern, in Paramount's dramatic romance of present-day life in a modern city, "Forgotten Commandments," which comes to the King's Theatre to-day.

Raymond's extraordinary performance as Sylvia Sidney's blond-haired sweetheart in "Ladies of the Big House" brought him immediate acclaim and marked him for greater roles on the silver screen. He was assigned work in Paramount films.

His first appearance was in "Personal Maid" as the rich young wastrel who falls in love, at the finish, with Nancy Carroll. Then followed "Ladies of the Big House" and now this new production, "Forgotten Commandments." As the romantic male lead, he is teamed with Sari Maritza, blonde sensation from Europe; Margaret Churchill, former Broadway actress and supporting player in a dozen films; and Irving Pichel, Paramount character player whose latest was "The Miracle Man" in which he played the atheist.

Raymond enjoyed a stellar rating on the Broadway stage before he was signed by Paramount.

He is the youngest member of the exclusive Players' Club in New York. He was born in New York, of French parentage, and began his stage activities at the age of five, in New York stock companies.

He has light blond hair, deep blue eyes and a splendid physique.

ing duel to the death between this madman and a young sportsman, with a beautiful young girl as the stake, forms the strange theme of this exciting film.

Joel McCrea, Fay Wray, Leslie Banks and Robert Armstrong head the cast which introduces a rich mixture of romance and action in one of literature's most colorful tales. Irving Pichel served as co-director with Schoedsack.

The possibilities afforded by local conditions in Shanghai for founding a Too H Group here discussed yesterday evening in the S.V.O. Headquarters. The meeting was attended by a considerable number of men of all ages, who, at the conclusion, indicated their willingness to take an active part in establishing a local branch.

TOM WALLS IN GREAT FORM

Debonair Tom Walls is said to be in great form in "Leap Year," the latest British and Dominions production. This new picture is from an original story by A. R. Rawlinson, and is an excellent vehicle for the style of acting which Tom Walls has made distinctly his own.

He is the "Star" of the production, dominating every scene in the manner to which cinema-goers have become accustomed. To assist him he has Anne Grey, playing her first principal role and Edmond Breon. "Leap Year" is having its final run at the Central Theatre to-day.

about the facts of life. When he falls heir to the Kendall fortune of fifty million dollars, he decides that he ought to find out how to live, and goes out into the city to pick up local colour.

At an auction of the unemployed, he picks up Susan Fleming, a pretty stenographer, and Alison Skipworth, who had once been a noted actress, and the two women become competent teachers for the bewildered young man. They are aided, moreover, by Grant Mitchell, as an ex-husband of Skipworth, and by Gordon Westcott as a crooked theatrical producer.

MR. G. B. SHAW IN SHANGHAI

Amusing Talk With Mei Lan Fang

GUEST OF THE PEN CLUB

Shanghai, February 18.—With a touch of his characteristic contrariness, Mr. G. B. Shaw contrived to disappoint such people as were interested in his arrival at Shanghai in the course of his world tour in the Empress of Britain. It had been announced that the first Canadian Pacific tender from the liner, which anchored off Woosung, would reach the Customs jetty about 9.30 a.m. Half an hour before that time a small crowd had gathered about the pontoon at which the tender was expected to berth, though foreigners were in a distinct minority in this throng, most of whom were composed of Chinese middle school students of callow years, together with a number of Chinese and foreign Press representatives and photographers.

Several of the Chinese students bore banners and flags, inscribed in Chinese and English with such legend as "Welcome to George Bernard Shaw: Down with Imperialism," and "Welcome to our great Shaw: Union of Dramatic and Cinematographic Workers." Leaflets of an anti-imperialist nature were distributed by a girl student dressed in bright red.

Eventually rumour had it that the elusive Irish will-o'-the-wisp had come ashore by launch at Yangtszepoo.

Guest of Pen Club.

During his stay in Shanghai, the playwright was the guest at a tiffin given by the Pen Club, where Mr. Mei Lan Fang, one of the well-known Chinese actors, was among a number of Chinese writers, artists, philosophers, etc., who attended. After the tiffin, Mr. Shaw received local newspapermen at the residence of Madame Sun Yat Sen, 29, Rue Moliere.

Quite without intention, Mr. Mei Lan Fang took the centre of the stage at the tiffin-party, for Mr. Shaw, after having been presented to all the guests, immediately returned to Mr. Mei and asked:—

"Will you please tell me how a Chinese actor can do anything in the midst of such infernal uproars as one hears on your stage? In our theatre, they put a man out if he sneezes. But you have gongs and symbols and the competition of half the audience and innumerable vendors. Don't you object?"

Fearing an explanation would take all of the afternoon, Mr. Mei smiled and said he that he it may, he considered himself honoured to meet such a great man of the western theatre.

In High Spirits.

In response to requests for a speech at the tiffin, Mr. Shaw stood up rolling his head, and said:—

"How preposterous to ask me to make a speech to writers. Now if you were businessmen or labourers, in fact anything but people of my own trade, I could get up and make a bluff, but what is the sense of that with people who are behind the scenes with me? You'll only say I'm sure he stayed up all night thinking out that one; It's like giving tracts to missionaries, as we say in England. After all, I may fool others, but I can't fool you. As for plays, I'm not the fellow who does the work, it's chaps like Mr. Mei here, the actors, who do the work. I sit by and take in the money they make for me by their efforts."

Mr. Shaw was asked why he was a vegetarian.

"There isn't any mystical or spiritual or complicated reason. It's very material. It fills me with disgust to think of eating flesh. That's my only reason. Vegetarianism is the diet of heroes and sinners, and, of course," said he, howling and sniggering impudently, "I admit being a saint."

Many Villains.

While questions were asked him about his plays and characters, Mr. Shaw said he made as many villains as he could out of his characters. In fact, he thought perhaps all of his characters were villains.

"Well," he said, "Now you've had a look at the bird, I suppose I'd better go along and see these newspapermen who are cursing me for being late."

At that instant Mr. Zou Sinmay carried in two large parcels and placed them on the table. Mr. Shaw leapt to his feet.

"Hoorey," he chorused, "I knew I'd get a present; That's the only reason I came."

He was especially interested in a glass enclosed case in which miniature coloured masks of characters in Chinese plays were arranged.—N.C. Daily News.

THE DANCER OF MR. SHAW

A SINGAPORE VIEW.

The Faculty of Hong Kong University must be heartily sorry that they invited Mr. Bernard Shaw to lecture to the students. To young men at Oxford or Cambridge, the address would have been innocuous enough. They know Mr. Shaw, and (Continued on next column)

BERLIN

Hitler's Challenge.

Berlin, Feb. 11.—The speech made last night by Chancellor Hitler has evoked an enthusiastic echo in the press of the Right. Deutsche Zeitung describes the speech as "a challenge to Marxism such as has never been uttered by a German Chancellor" and emphasizes the National Socialist chief's plea for national unity. Berliner Lokal-Anzeiger stresses the Chancellor's statement that Germany will fight herself out of misery and democracy without looking for help from abroad and insists that the statement constitutes a radical departure from the policy of former Governments, thus opening a way towards the Reich's rebirth.

Philippines to Berlin.

Berlin, February 11.—Direct wireless telephone service between the Philippines and Berlin as well as indirectly with Paris was inaugurated last night when the big wireless station at Nauen near Berlin succeeded in taking a telephone call from Manila and in relaying it to Paris.

The charges for a three minutes' conversation between Manila and Paris will be 800 Francs.

BREMEN

Floating Island Trials.

Bremen, Feb. 18.—The 5,000 ton steamer "Westphalen" which has been reconstructed for the purpose of being stationed in the Southern Atlantic to serve as a base for a regular air-service between Europe and South America, returned today from a successful trial cruise during which three seaplanes were catapulted from the vessel and returned on deck with the help of the huge canvasdred. The steamer which is equipped with all modern devices for seaplane traffic, including repair-shops, strong search-lights and a powerful radio station will probably take up her station in the early part of the coming spring when a trial service will be inaugurated.

PARIS

A Military Pact?

Paris, Feb. 16.—Following the emphatic German and Italian denials of the rumours alleging that a secret military pact existed between Germany, Italy, and Hungary, a semi-official statement was issued here today to the effect that, contrary to press reports, no information concerning the alleged treaty of alliance had ever been brought to the attention of the Chamber's Foreign Affairs Committee.

This is expected to cause some surprise to the French Nationalist papers which had made the most of these rumours.

The Little Entente.

Paris, February 16.—France's attitude towards the new agreement reached by the three governments of the Little Entente was outlined this evening by Foreign Minister Paul Boncour at a special Cabinet meeting. The Foreign Minister on this occasion referred to the agreement as "an important step towards the formation of a block of Central Powers and particularly the Danube states."

BRUSSELS

King Albert's Decision.

Brussels, Feb. 16.—An extraordinary step was taken late this evening by the King when he intervened in the Government crisis and in a letter to Premier de Broqueville declined to accept the Cabinet's resignation, stressing that the country at large would not understand why the work of economic reconstruction undertaken by the Cabinet should be interrupted and jeopardized merely on account of a failure of the Government to come to an agreement with the realize that he must be original at all costs. But the address was delivered in Hong Kong and to students of whom the majority are Chinese, and people with any acquaintance with the East know that the Chinese have a habit of accepting what is told to them as meaning exactly what it says.

What, then, would Mr. Shaw's youthful audience make of the advice to sleep themselves in revolutionary books and go up to the neck in Communism? "If you are not a Red at twenty you will be an old fossil at fifty," said the great but dangerous writer, and addressed a European audience there was truth in what he said. The fiery Socialist of aristocratic family is well-known at Oxford, and in that sense it is no bad thing for a young man to be revolutionary and get it out of his system. But to Hong Kong and Canton, "Red" and "Communism" have very different and very sinister meanings. With people like Mr. Shaw roaming about unrestrained, likely to say anything at any moment for the sake of its effect, the lot of officials in the East is hard. Perhaps in future passports will be issued to authors with certain restrictions as to the right to make speeches in—

Chamber on such a relatively unimportant question as the validity of some communal elections.

The King's action is without precedent in Belgium's constitutional history and is therefore arousing the utmost attention.

MOSCOW

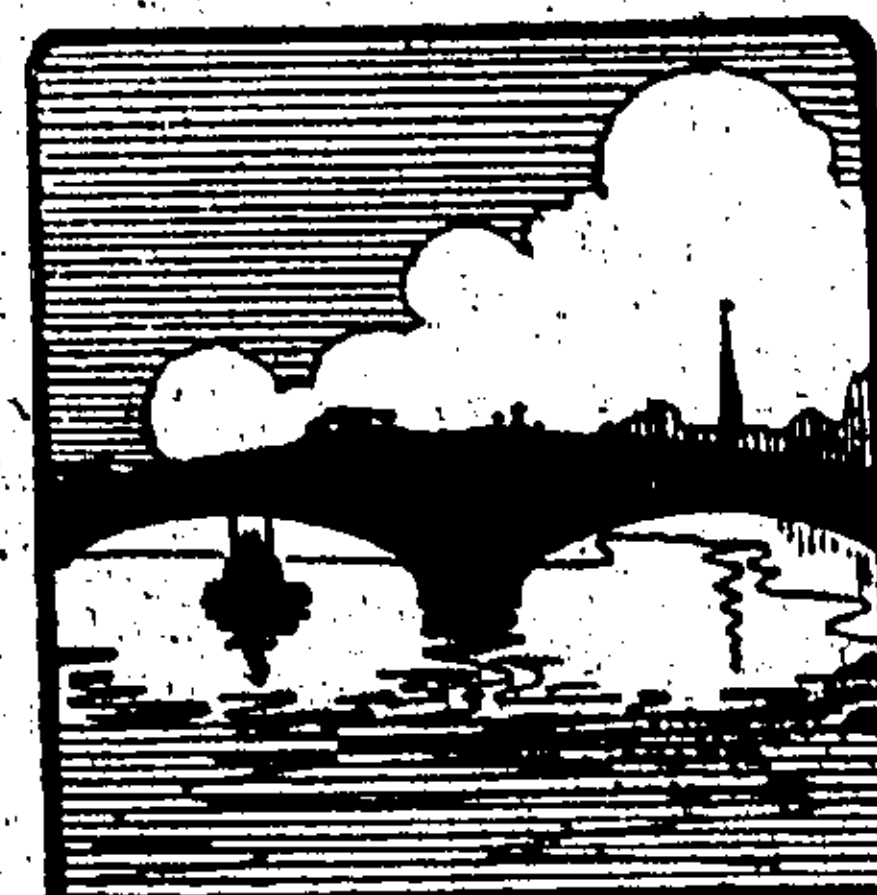

Moscow Traffic Hold Up!

Moscow, February 11.—The simultaneous start of work in all Moscow factories is, according to Vetchernaya Moscow, imposing a heavy strain on the whole traffic system of the capital of the Soviet-Union. Both at begin and at the end of the daily working hours traffic in the city's thoroughfares is so heavy that not only a great part of the workers is always late, but that there is also a great danger of accidents resulting from this state of affairs.

The City-Soviet has therefore declared that the work in the different factories shall henceforth begin at various times so that the demand upon the means of public conveyances may be somewhat relieved.

The outcome of this experiment is being watched with much interest as practically all the big cities in the world are confronted with the same problem.

CLAIMS AGAINST
FRENCH STEAMER$19,690.12 FOR COAL
SUPPLIED

Yet another claim was brought in the Supreme Court yesterday before the Chief Justice, Sir Joseph Kemp, against the French vessel, Gr. M. Maurice Long II. The plaintiffs were the Pak Hoi Co., 24, Des Vaux Road West, who sued for $19,690.12 for necessities supplied.

Mr. H. C. Macnamara (instructed by Mr. W. A. Mackinlay of Messrs. Deacons) represented the plaintiffs.

Several months ago the vessel was sold at the order of the Court to meet liabilities, and the proceeds deposited with the Court.

His Lordship ordered that the proceeds be condemned for the amount of the claim and costs.

Mr. Macnamara said he understood there were two appearances in the case and in each defendants discontinued their opposition to the action and a short time ago leave was given to proceed ex parte. The facts were extremely simple, but the law with regard to such claims was not quite so obvious as it would be in most claims for necessities. The claim was for coal, which undoubtedly was a necessary, and the money which had been advanced by the plaintiff firm was advanced while they were agents for the steamer.

Question of Ownership.

The plaintiff stated that the vessel was at all material times owned by the Hong Kong Steamship Company (Haiphong), Limited, Haiphong, and was formerly owned by the Societe des Affruteurs Indochinois. The plaintiffs were at all material times agents of the Hong Kong S.S. Co., (Haiphong), Limited, in Hong Kong and they had the authority from the Hong Kong Co. to supply and/or advance or pay the money for all necessities supplied to the ship at the request of the master thereof.

The petition continued that the vessel was arrested in August last and sold by the order of the Court; and set out various transactions between the plaintiffs and the defendants whereby there was a balance due to the plaintiffs of the amount claimed.

His Lordship directed that the proceeds be condemned in the sum of $19,690 and costs.

[All letters intended for publication must be accompanied by the name and address of the writer, not for publication, unless so desired, but as evidence of good faith—ED.]

HONG KONG A.D.C.

[TO THE EDITOR OF THE "HONG KONG DAILY PRESS."]

SIR—You published recently a contributed article on the activities past and present of the Hong Kong A.D.C., wherein it was stated that up to the early eighties all feminine parts were impersonated by males. I do not know from what source your contributor obtained his information, but although my personal knowledge of A.D.C. productions falls far short of the early eighties I have a lively recollection of my late father referring to "The School for Scandal" that was produced in the late seventies in which he took a minor part. The leading lady in the play was Mrs. Philip Bernard, and Mrs. Coxon also appeared under the name of "theatre" of Mrs. Hockley.

It is likely enough that your contributor was not very far out very far out in his dates because even in the middle eighties I have heard that it was customary for all the cast to adopt stage names owing to the objection of local talpans to their employees appearing on the stage. Mr. Coxon, of Jardine, was a tower of strength in those days, but always acted under the name of Mr. Hockley, and Mr. Beart, who was, I believe, Secretary of the Hong Kong Club, was for many years the star comedian. As an old-timer in amateur theatricals I would like to congratulate the Hong Kong A.D.C. on the quality of its shows in recent years. I saw "Nine Till Six" in London and if the local production is up to standard it should prove a big success.—Yours, etc.,

THESPIAN.

A REST ROOM

CHINESE Y.W.C.A.'S NEW VENTURE

A babble of chatter, beaming smiles, tea, cakes and a real spirit of good fellowship. The Chinese Y.W.C.A. was holding a "house warming" at the new rest room at 63, Des Vaux Road, Central.

The rest room is situated on the second floor of the new building at the corner of Pottinger Street and Des Vaux Road, and is a charmingly light and airy room prettily furnished with rattan, upolstered arm chairs and couches, bright curtains, and picture-hung walls. The furnishings were given by the various clubs connected with the Chinese Y.W.C.A. The idea behind the opening of these new premises is to provide a room in which meetings may be held and where Chinese members of the Y.W.C.A., who may be working or shopping in the Central District, can drop in for a rest or to write a letter, but Miss Shin, the very charming Chinese secretary of the Y.W.C.A., assured a Daily Press representative that a warm welcome would be extended to women of other nationalities also.

Employment Bureau.

The employment bureau of the Y.W.C.A. will be situated at 63, Des Vaux Road, but we understand that the bureau in Causeway Road will be kept open. The rest room will be open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. and at least one member of the Board will be present every day.

The Chinese Y.W.C.A. has done very fine work in the colony. It was started in 1917 and formally organised in 1930. The membership now numbers about 300, besides approximately the same number of girls belonging to various Y.W. Clubs.

SOUTH CHINA
NOTESSHEKPAI RACES SWEEP-STAKE

There is to be a sweepstake for the Shekpai (Canton) horse races on March 30. 30,000 tickets will be issued and the first prize will be worth about $30,000.

Small-pox, etc.

The following cases of contagious diseases occurred in Canton during the week ending February 18, according to the report issued by the Bureau of Health:

Small-pox 86, including 1 death; diphtheria 2; meningitis 1; dysentery 3; and measles 4.

Vaccination to be Enforced?

The Municipal Bureau of Public Health report good results from the last vaccination campaign, and a large number of people availed themselves of the free service.

It is suggested that some form of compulsory vaccination be introduced.

The Pearl Bridge.

The Bureau of Public Utilities announced that the following schedule for the opening of the Pearl Steel Bridge will be observed: A.M., 6.20 to 6.40; 8 to 8.15. P.M., 4.24 to 4.40; 6 to 6.15.

Saichuen Cement Works.

The Saichuen Cement Works stated that 1,600 sacks of cement are produced daily by the Works. "Additional machinery from Denmark costing $200,000 will be ready in June at which time the production of the works will be increased to 2,700 sacks daily."

"The quality and price of local product compared very favourably with these of imported brands."

Foonchow and Amoy.

Foonchow with a population of 330,000 and Amoy, with a population of 210,000 are to be raised to the status of municipalities. The former will be an area of 300 square li including parts of the Minhsien and Houkwan districts while the Amoy Municipality will include the Szeming, Hoshan and Kulangau districts.

These increased rates have been approved by the Executive Yuan, to be effective for the present year instead of the former rates of 2 per mille for the three provinces.

A YOUNG TIBETAN
IN ENGLANDLearns To Enjoy League
FootballCONTRASTS OF HOME LIFE

Tachienlu, W. China, Jan. 14.—Yesterday, Namka Dendru, a young Tibetan, arrived in the city from Shanghai.

Namka, a bright, intelligent young fellow, is the brother of Mrs. Louis King, the wife of the British Consul, who left Tachienlu in the autumn of 1922. After a visit to Peiping, where Namka met the Panchen Lama, and a short holiday in Japan, the young Tibetan travelled home to England with his sister and her husband. There in the beautiful lanes of sunny Kent he spent seven very happy and enjoyable years.

Beauty of England.

It is too early yet to find out his reaction on returning to the Land of the Lamas, but it has been most interesting discovering his impressions of seven years' residence in England. Living down in Kent he was very much impressed by the quiet beauty of the English lanes and the possibility of wandering unmolested through one of England's flower gardens. Having lived both in China and Tibet, the peculiar privacy of the English home and garden struck him very much. In his own native land practically no home enjoys privacy and any one may walk in and out and no question be asked. Very early in the morning the big front door is opened and remains so till it is closed late at night. We did not ask him which he preferred but rather gathered that he learned to appreciate the quietness and privacy of the English home.

The enormous crowds at the football matches somewhat appalled him. He visited Highbury and saw the Arsenal in one of their Cup-tie games. What impressed him was the careful way a fainting person was handled and removed from the crowd. In these enormous, madly yelling crowds, the young Tibetan was inclined himself to feel quite dizzy. However, he learned to enjoy and appreciate English football and thoroughly understand the game.

The Zoo.

The British Museum had an endless attraction for Namka. Here he used to spend many of his days enjoying the exhibits from the lands afar. He was also greatly interested in the Tibetan section and the many exhibits from the Roof of the World. However, the Mechanical Section was the piece de resistance.

But the Zoo, the London Zoo! This par excellence was the attraction for this young man from Tibet. He saw the monkeys at Penang and he saw the monkeys in the Zoo and these fascinating creatures captivated his imagination, and hours were spent in front of those monkeys. Here he also saw some thing "from his own country," the wild and woolly yak touched a tender spot and carried him away back to the high uplands of central Asia. Surely he was not so far away from home after all; there it was quietly grazing, the wild, woolly yak, and apparently perfectly happy. Why should he not be happy? And the Takin and the wild Tibetan goat were not very far away.

Servants.

Namka was long enough in England to discover the personal interest surrounding the Servant Question. What did impress him was the readiness with which the servant got tired. After an hour's work they felt strongly inclined to rest on the sofa; and what struck him was their aversion to children. And the fact that no servant would begin work till their life was assured left him wondering about the world's safety for Democracy. This whole servant proposition seemed so different from conditions obtaining in his own native Minya.

FINGER-NAIL "MOONS"
AS HEALTH INDEXFRENCH DOCTOR'S OBSERVATIONS

Are the finger-nails an index to the state of a person's health? The theory has been put forward from time to time through the centuries, but recently the Paris journal Le Petit Journal has published the result of a systematic investigation by Doctors Zoeller, Noyer, and Boide, who state:

"The investigations embraced fully twelve hundred individuals, either ill, convalescent, or healthy. 'Healthy' subjects, carefully selected and endowed with vitality, have as a rule from eight to ten crescent-shaped whitish little 'moons' at the base of their finger-nails—one each on the majority of the nails."

"Individuals succumbing to an infectious malady have the whitish crescents at the base of the thumb-nails only. Often such individuals have no 'moons' at all on even the thumb-nail."

"An individual suffering from an infectious disease may during convalescence find that these little 'moons' reappear at the base of the finger-nails, and expand and increase in number."

"Among individuals usually enjoying good health, these little 'moons' at the base of the finger-nails vary according to the rise or fall of the vitality. Seasonal variations occur; the little crescents increase in size during the spring and show a tendency to decrease in the autumn."

"It may indeed happen that a person with ten little 'moons'—one on each nail—will succumb to an infectious malady. Nevertheless, people usually in good health who lose their finger-nail—crescents might find it well to look into the cause of such a variation."

HONG KONG, FEBRUARY 24, 1933.

THE JAPANESE MILITARY MACHINE.

LORD LYTON has compared the Japanese General Staff with that of the Prussian General Staff from 1870 to 1914. This is the view of a shrewd observer, and a few facts about the method evolved in Japan for the training of officers will show that while copying the good points of the German system, many errors are being avoided. The efficiency of the West is being grafted onto the old Samurai virtues, and not planted as a new tree in foreign soil.

The modern Japanese Army is mainly the creation of two famous Generals, Marshals OYAMA and YAMAGATA who were born in 1842 and 1839, respectively, and, therefore, go back to the days of the pre-Meiji period. They took part in the defeat of the Shoguns and saw the building of the new army, from the beginning. Marshal OYAMA was military attaché at Paris during the war of 1870, and while the army of Moltke was taken as the model for Japan, a number of valuable modifications were culled from France.

Although these two officers were of the Samurai class the modern Japanese Army is on a democratic basis and the officers are drawn from the whole nation irrespective of class. The first stage in the education of a Japanese military officer is at one of a number of local military preparatory schools, to which candidates are admitted between the ages of thirteen and fifteen, after passing medical and scholastic examinations. The majority of the candidates come from elementary schools. For three years they are given a general education, only three hours devoted to military subjects, as against double that time for Chinese and Japanese literature, a Western language, and mathematics. The methods and the curriculum bear considerable resemblance to those of the British R.N. College at Osborne, now abandoned, with the important difference that the cost to Japanese parents is £10 per annum as against ten times that amount for British Naval education. The Japanese students are carefully watched and judicious prunings made, so that a boy unsuitable for the Army easily enters civil life. From the local military school the student graduates to the Central Military School at Tokyo, where the two-year course is on definitely specialised lines. At the age of eighteen the cadet leaves college and spends six months in the ranks in order to get thorough knowledge of the duties of a common soldier. So far as work is concerned the goes through all drills and exercises with the men of his company, but he messes with the officers and sleeps in separate barracks with other military cadets.

After these six months the cadet enters the Royal Military Academy at Tokyo, the Japanese Sandhurst. The course is one of eighteen months, and, on passing out, the cadet becomes an aspirant or probationary officer for six months and is then appointed second lieutenant. There is a staff college for officers of special ability and schools for technical arms of the service, but every officer must first pass through the training which has been described.

These are the foundations of Japanese militarism and on such lines every officer from subaltern to statesman-general has been trained, they are taught to be soldiers first and foremost, a lesson never forgotten. On the other hand, a splendid education is given, designed to counteract any danger of professional narrowness. They have the knowledge necessary to statesmen, but the political arts, at which there are many military adepts in Japan, are used in the service of military ambitions and ideals. In that lies the strength of Japanese militarism in the modern world, and the fear that it invokes not only in China but among all countries who have interests in the lands bordering the Pacific Ocean. The aim is to produce a nation in arms, and not to make a military caste distinct from, and distrusted by the civilian, and especially the working class, population. No wonder the genuineness of the TAMAKI memorandum, setting on a plan of Japanese world-conquest was widely accepted.

NANKING-PUKOW TRAIN FERRY

BOXER INDEMNITY LOAN OF £16,000

Nanking, Feb. 12.—A loan agreement for £16,000 was formally signed between representatives of the Board of Trustees of the British Boxer Indemnity Fund and the Ministry of Railways yesterday. Proceeds of the loan will be used for the completion of the railway ferry between Hsaiakwan (Nanking) and Pukow.

A previous loan for £16,000 from the same source was made by the Ministry for the ferry scheme. However, with the piers and the ferry nearing completion, it is found that the actual expenditure exceeds the original estimates so that an additional loan has had to be obtained.—Kuo Min.

HANGCHOW-KIANGSHAN RAILWAY

SCHEDULED TO FINISH THIS YEAR

Hanchow, Feb. 17.—The entire length of the Hangchow-Kiangshan Railway is scheduled to be completed by the end of the year. Construction work is proceeding smoothly from Kihwa toward the Kiang border.

In traversing this last stretch of the line, the railway has to cross four rivers and the construction of bridges over them necessitate much delay. The Yangtze Construction Company, which was awarded the contract for building the bridges, reports that materials have been ordered from Germany and are due to arrive in several shipments between March and May.—Kuo Min.

GENERAL SU'S MEN TO COME HOME

INTERNEED FORCES TO RETURN BY TORTUOUS ROUTE

Moscow, February 17.—Repatriation of the thousands of Chinese soldiers who crossed the Soviet Russian border from Manchuria with General Su Ping Wen two months ago and were interned at Tomsk, was begun to-day. The first to be evacuated will be the soldiers and, after that task is completed, General Su, together with the officers who came with him, and their families will be permitted to proceed to Europe.

Because of the dangers and hardships attending the evacuation, the officers and their families will remain. The route selected to China is long and tortuous. They will go over the Trans-Siberian Railway to a point somewhere this side of Khabarovsk, whence they will cross Sinkiang by caravan. By taking this route, all possibility of a clash with Japanese forces will be removed.

It was considered advisable here not to permit General Su to go to China direct. He will remain under the internment agreement for about three weeks, it is believed.

FIRST SOVIET SHIP IN SHANGHAI

S.S. LOZOVSKY ARRIVES WITH CARGO OF LUMBER

The first of the Soviet vessels to reach Shanghai since the re-opening of trade relations between China and Russia, the S.S. Lozovsky, passed Woosung last Saturday and tied up at No. 12 Buoy, not far from the Robert Dollar Wharf.

The Lozovsky, under the command of Captain Saharoff, brought with her a passenger list of six foreigners and 67 Chinese. Besides this she carried a cargo of 100,000 cubic feet of lumber, which besides filling the holds entirely, covered the deck to a height of several feet. It is expected that she will return to Vladivostok with a cargo of tea in 10 or 15 days.

Built in 1903, the S.S. Lozovsky is a cargo boat of some 6,000 tons, and the local agents, the Chinese Eastern Railway Commercial Agency, are expecting to have her and similar ships run on a regular schedule in a short time. No details are yet available, as this voyage was in the nature of a test run.

These applications will be received at the Passport Office at the "Allies Landing Place" (a little East of Dutch Ferry) between the hours of five and six p.m. and will be forwarded thence to the Commissioner's Yamen. The Passport having been granted will

HIS MAJESTY'S SLOOPS

VARIED DUTIES FROM PERSIAN GULF TO MANCHURIA

H.M.S. Dundee, one of the new sloops, commissioned for trials at Chatham recently. There are eighteen ships of this class, and unlike those they will replace, they are fitted with turbines, and each is provided with a spare cabin for the use of political officers.

To the general public, however, the duties upon which these little ships are occupied, year in and year out, are probably of more interest than are technical details of the ships themselves. The sloops, of which there are at the present moment eighteen in commission on foreign stations, are employed in the Persian Gulf, the Red Sea, China, the South Seas, the West Coast of Africa, and the West Indies, and in all these parts of the world, with the exception of the West Indies, these small ships are for the most part occupied in what may be termed ambassadorial duties.

Where Rival Sheikh Met.

This is particularly the case in the Persian Gulf, where, on the friendly and neutral quarter-deck of the sloops, many a dispute between rival sheikhs is settled, and many friendly accommodations between Arab tribes and Great Britain are arranged.

A notable example of the diplomatic activities of these small vessels occurred on board H.M.S. Lupin in February, 1930, when the historic meeting between King Faisal of Iraq and Ibn Saud, King of the Hedjaz (now King of Saudi Arabia), was successfully achieved after all attempts at a meeting on land had failed.

In March last year, the British Minister in Teheran, accompanied by the Senior Naval Officer, Persian Gulf, toured the Gulf in H.M.S. Powey, and occasionally it occurs that the political officers scattered round the Gulf are given facilities to take passage in a sloop, thus enabling them to administer their domain with enhanced dignity.

Slavery in some districts is still a regular institution, but at sea, in the Gulf and the Red Sea, British sloops suppress slave traffic, which in the last few years has shrunk to very small proportions.

Patrol of Fisheries.

The sloops patrol the fisheries during the pearl diving season and act as an unofficial and friendly police force among the 4,000 dhow engaged in the fishing. A big pearl dhow carries thirty divers with a crew of about ten; the dhow being rowed by forty men, who also act as rope-pullers to help the divers to the surface. The cost of financing one large dhow for the season is 8,000 rupees. Round the neck of each diver is hung a strong basket

RESISTING ATHEISM

DR. BARNES ON "DESPERATE" POLICY

Dr. Barnes, Bishop of Birmingham, speaking of the religious division of the future at a meeting of the Modern Churchmen's Union, said: "Is our religion to be that of the Middle Ages, or of the present day—a faith that welcomes the modern spirit, so attractive to our young people?"

"Such a faith has a future, but an outlook that is reactionary or timid, that is hostile to science, or false to history, that is unwilling to co-operate in social reform, such an outlook and the religion on which it is based, will, unless our civilisation collapses, sooner or later decay."

Dr. Barnes asked whether those who urged that all Christian bodies should join together to resist Atheism were prepared to welcome an ideal, that joint encyclicals should be issued by the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Rev. Dr. Scott Lidgett, the Pope, the Orthodox Patriarch, General Higgins and the successor to Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy.

"I confess," added Dr. Barnes, "that such a policy seem to me to be desperate."

for the subsequent collection of the shells. Though the sloops have no official standing their presence is welcome among the dhow, their quarter-decks being at all times available should a reconciliation be desired between quarrelsome Arabs.

It sometimes happens that a local sheik will ignore his treaty and other obligations, and create a disturbance to the detriment of his neighbours. In such cases a sloop is sent to remonstrate with him, and this may take the form of seizing his dhows and holding them as hostages until he sees reason.

In Manchuria.

In other parts of the world diplomatic responsibilities, varying in their nature according to the station and circumstances, are duties which the commanding officers of sloops may at any time be called upon to perform. The case of H.M.S. Folkestone is a recent instance, when Japanese and Chinese officials assembled on board her quarter-deck for the discussion of the military and political matters in dispute in connection with the recent operations in Manchuria.

This brief sketch of the duties performed by British sloops in the burning climate of the Persian Gulf and Red Sea may serve to show how potent a weapon is the prestige of these small ships, armed with little more than a couple of pop-guns.

From Arabia to the South Sea Islands, from China to the "White Man's Grave," they perform services to Great Britain and, indeed, to the world at large, out of all proportion to the cost involved, and with an authority slenderly supported by a couple of tin guns.—The London Morning Post.

JAPANESE ADVANCE ON JEHO LAUNCHED

CHINESE REPULSE INVADING TROOPS AT PEIPIAO

CHANGCHUN ULTIMATUM DELIVERED AT NANKING

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

TOKYO, February 23.

The War Office has instructed Lieut.-General Nakamura, Commander of the Japanese Garrison at Tientsin to take precautionary steps lest the Jehol operations cause disturbances in North China.

CHANGCHUN, February 23.

In accordance with the Manchukuo War Minister's orders, the Commander-in-Chief of the Manchukuo forces started the advance against the Chinese positions in Jehol at midnight on Wednesday.

PEIPING, February 23.

The long promised Changchun ultimatum still hangs fire. Chinese reports declare there was fighting at Peipiao yesterday, but though the Japanese attacks often reached the city they were beaten off and the town is still in the hands of the Chinese.

The Japanese Government has instructed the Consul-General at Nanking to warn the Chinese Government, orally, to evacuate Chinese troops from Jehol to south of the Great Wall.

NANKING, February 23.

The Japanese Note was presented at the Foreign Office this evening demanding the withdrawal of Chinese regulars from Jehol.

PEIPING, February 23.

According to information from informed Japanese circles, an oral ultimatum to Nanking is likely to be the only one delivered. This is taken to suffice, as the Young Marshal has repeatedly stated his actions will be taken on instructions from the Central Government.

PEIPING, February 23.

As expected the Manchukuo ultimatum has not yet materialized even the Japanese skirmishes round Jehol have ceased off. Chinese reports state that General Nakamura, the Japanese Commander in North China, is calling up 1,500 Japanese reservists at Tientsin for service, making his total force 3,000.

THREE HUNDRED JAPANESE CASUALTIES

PEIPING, Feb. 23.

That the threatened Japanese ultimatum to Marshal Chang Hsueh Liang is a purely a formal matter seems to be borne out by the fact that one of the most serious engagements is being fought. General Tung Fu Ting, the Chinese commander at Chaoyang reports by telegraph last evening of an engagement the day before, in which the Japanese casualties totalled three hundred. The Chinese losses were equally heavy.

General Tung Fu Ting declares that the Japanese forces are about four thousand and attacked from Chaoyang, following up air bombings by infantry attack and bayonet charges. He declares that his troops waited till the Japanese were within a hundred yards whereupon they inflicted heavy casualties with machine guns. Later he made a counter-attack and the cavalry of both sides were engaged.

The Chinese attempted flanking movement across the railway, this stopping the Japanese advance on Nanjing.

Reports that are coming in describe wintry conditions on all fronts. The mountain roads are still covered with ice and there is much snow in some places.

WHAT OF BRITONS?

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, Feb. 23.

Sir John Simon will be asked in the House of Commons on February 24, whether in view of the situation in Jehol he has given orders for the evacuation of all Britons from the province, also whether in view of the imminence of a Japanese invasion of North China, he has considered the advisability of ordering the withdrawal of all Britons from outlying districts within Chihli and their concentration either at Peiping or Tientsin.

NANKING, Feb. 23.

Japan's demand for the withdrawal of Chinese troops from Jehol are contained in an aide memoire presented to the Foreign Office this evening.

JAPAN EXPLAINS!

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

TOKYO, Feb. 23.

It is authoritatively stated that the Foreign Office has instructed the Japanese Ambassador from London to explain to their Government, to which they are accredited, Japan's intentions regarding Jehol, and to reassure them that Japan will do her utmost to prevent fighting spreading inside the Great Wall.

The Japanese Ambassadors have also been instructed to notify that the "advice" sent to China urging the withdrawal of Chinese regulars from Jehol is for the purpose of minimizing the possibility of fighting spreading into North China and proposing a local settlement of the Shanhaikuan affair for the purpose of enabling Japan to withdraw her garrison.

MUI TSAI SYSTEM IN HONG KONG

DISCUSSED IN HOUSE OF COMMONS

[BRITISH WIRELESS SERVICE.]

LONDON, Feb. 23.

THE suggestion that young girls were being imported into Hong Kong as adopted daughters in order to evade the mui-tai law, was made in the House of Commons by Mr. W. Lunn in the course of a question regarding the present position of a mui-tai.

Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister, Secretary of State for the Colonies, replied that the status of a former mui-tai was now that of a free, paid worker. It had been illegal to employ girls as mui-tai since the cessation of registration.

Mr. Lunn asked whether Sir Philip replied that he thought the system most satisfactory and today, the inspection was working very satisfactorily.

Mr. Lunn then asked: "When does the Minister imagine we shall have come to the end of this kind of slavery and what part is the British Government going to take in this year's celebration of the centenary of the abolition of slavery under the British flag?"

Replying, Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister said: "We have already anticipated it by abolishing the mui-tai."

MR. LANSBURY REQUESTS HOUSE DEBATE

[BRITISH WIRELESS SERVICE.]

RUGBY, Feb. 23.

Mr. George Lansbury, Leader of the Opposition, in the House of Commons yesterday, requested the Prime Minister, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, to allow the earliest possible date for a debate on the Far East, in which a statement as to the Government's policy regarding the arms embargo could be made.

The Premier agreed to allow time on Monday, but pointed out that the Foreign Secretary, Sir John Simon, had already given the answer on the question of the arms embargo.

The Government's view was that such an embargo must be the subject of an international agreement, and they were doing everything they could to ascertain whether that international agreement was possible.

HEAVY AERIAL BOMBING

PEIPING, Feb. 23.

Official despatches describe terrific aeroplane bombings of Chaoyang, Nanjing and Peipiao, the intensive campaign apparently being for the purpose of destroying communications to the defenders who are holding out staunchly at Peipiao and Nanjing.

The planes were driven off from Chaoyang by anti-aircraft guns.

STRONG REINFORCEMENTS

Chinese reports state that heavy Japanese reinforcements are continually going up to the front. Well-informed Japanese in Peiping state that the general attack on the eastern and southern borders of Jehol is commencing to-morrow.

Further skirmishing has taken place at Kailu, which is expected to be the jumping-off point for the attack on the eastern border of Jehol.

ADMINISTRATION OF INDIA

PROVINCIAL AUTONOMY NOT FAVOURED

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, Feb. 23.

THE House of Commons, by 297 votes to 42, rejected the motion of Brig-General Sir Henry Page-Croft, Conservative Member for Bournemouth, urging a provincial autonomy in India to precede the transfer of responsibility at the centre.

The House of Commons adopted the Government amendment in favour of deferring judgment until the Government's detailed proposals for constitutional reform are announced.

THE MILITARY POSITION IN JEHO

CAREFUL JAPANESE PREPARATIONS

The well-informed Peiping Correspondent of the "North China Daily News" gives the following analysis of the military situation on the Jehol border.

Chinese circles are constantly prophesying the immediate commencement of operations with exact date, altering the date each time, as the prophecy does not come off. Their latest information is that the Japanese have been massing several divisions at Shanhaikuan with the object of breaking in there and taking Tientsin and Peiping, so that we shall be shortly enjoying the blessings of monarchical government under a Manchu emperor.

Well-informed military circles do not believe that this can be done either so quickly or from this direction. According to the most reliable sources only four divisions and a few cavalry brigades are at present in Manchuria, probably not exceeding 50,000 men altogether. For immediate use against Jehol one division and two cavalry brigades, spread out between Chinchow and Shanhaikuan, say about 15,000 men, would be available, together with part of another division, about 5,000 men, between Mukden and Kailu. These forces, it is believed, would not be sufficient to drive the Chinese armies out of Jehol; nor is it considered likely that the Japanese will repeat the mistake at Shanghai of under-estimating the task. There fore, quite considerable reinforcements would have to be brought up, which will not only require time, but cannot be done completely unobserved. The recent talk about large Japanese reinforcements having arrived may possibly be due to the fact that the Japanese War Office, instead of giving recruits three months training at the home depots, are sending them straight away to be trained in Manchuria, where they provide garrison in the towns, thus releasing numbers of trained troops for service in the field. But even this new system does not bring the total of the Japanese forces in Manchuria up to more than 70,000 to 80,000.

Chinese Strength in Jehol.

The latest information as to the Chinese forces in Jehol is as follows:—Tang Yu Lin's army, away in the east facing Kailu and Chaoyang, about Chang Hsueh Liang's two brigades (Heilungkiang) and some cavalry, round 35,000. Kien-chang, about 20,000. Sung Che Yuan's forces (Kuomintang) around Changtsefu, about 35,000. Sun Tien Ying's forces (Kuomintang) in support, about 25,000. The last three bodies are under the supreme command of Sung Che Yuan.

A grand total of about 125,000 men, not to mention an indeterminate horde of half-armed "volunteers." The report, put out by certain news-agencies, that any of Yen Hsi Shao's or Han Fu Chu's troops form part of the armies either in Jehol or on the Shanhaikuan is not correct, as no part of either the Shanai or Shantung armies have proceeded beyond their own frontiers. General Shang Chen, former Chairman of Shansi, has long ceased to have any connection with Yen Hsi Shan or with Shansi.

The Commissariat Problem.

The most mysterious problem about this mass of troops in Jehol is, how they are being fed. There are rumours that they are already experiencing grave difficulties in this respect. And the Chairman of Jehol, Tang Yu Lin, in a speech at a banquet of welcome to volunteer leaders, specially referred to this question of supplies, and expressed the hope that satisfactory arrangements would be quickly made for same. It is indeed rather an enigma; for Jehol is not a very great grain-producing district, whilst the only line of communications for the troops in Jehol is the very difficult and mountainous motor-road from Kupeikow. Besides, a simple calculation will show that thousands of carts and lorries would be required to keep such numbers as the above properly supplied with food, not to mention munitions and equipment.

Whilst the rumours here of the fighting in Jehol become ever more scare-line, it is interesting to note that since the removal of the Palace treasures, the rumours about the danger to Peiping have completely died away.

LAND SPEED RECORD BROKEN

Sir Malcolm Campbell's 272 miles Per Hour

TERRIFIC SPEED ATTAINED: ONE HAND ON WHEEL

[BRITISH WIRELESS SERVICE.]

RUGBY, Feb. 22.

IN spite of the poor visibility, which limited his view to a few hundred yards, and the by no means perfect condition of the beach, Sir Malcolm Campbell yesterday exceeded his own land-speed record of 234 miles per hour, by over 18 miles.

Conditions were so bad at the mid-day hour announced for the trial that he thought it would be impossible to break the record, but undertook the attempt in order not to disappoint the 50,000 people who were present to see him drive his car, "Blue Bird," as fast as he dared.

After waiting an hour, the low-lying mists obscuring the course became thinner and Sir Malcolm Campbell made the run southward at a recorded speed of 273.556 miles per hour. He changed the tyres and made the northward run at 270.876 miles per hour, thus setting up a new world record of 273.108 miles per hour.

"The Blue Bird" car used by Sir Malcolm was the same as that used by him in establishing his previous world's record. It had, however, been reconstructed and fitted with Rolls Royce engines similar to those used in the victorious British Schneider Trophy aeroplanes, the horse-power thus being raised from 1,450 to 2,600.

Sir Malcolm Campbell considers the car capable of a higher speed than that recorded yesterday, providing the course conditions are satisfactory.

After his southward run Sir Malcolm asked what time he had taken, and on being told he said that his speedometer had shown 320 miles per hour when he entered the measured mile.

He remarked "That shows how much tyre ripping there is at high speed."

SMASHED TWO GUIDE-POSTS

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

DAYTONA BEACH, Feb. 23.

Sir Malcolm Campbell said that the "Blue Bird" was at no time on full throttle. "I was unable to let her at all out."

"The old car would have done much better if she had had better conditions. As they were, she simply would not stay under control and hit two guide-posts which were smashed to smithereens," he said.

Sir Malcolm indicated that would make no further trials before returning to England.

OFFICIAL SPEED

Sir Malcolm Campbell broke his own world-speed motoring record in his Napier-Rolls Royce engine car, "Blue Bird II," at an official speed of 272.108 miles per hour.

THOUGHT I WAS DONE FOR

DAYTONA BEACH, Feb. 23.

It was revealed after the record breaking feat that Sir Malcolm Campbell drove with only one hand, as he sprained his arm last week while making some repairs to his car.

He said, "It was the worst ride I ever had in my life. The beach was so rough that I thought I was done for on several occasions. If the car had not responded most magnificently I would have landed in the sand dunes or the ocean."

The mile speed time on the southward run was 273.556 miles per hour taking 13.16 seconds. The northward run was covered at 270.876 miles per hour, in 13.97 seconds, making an average of 272.108 miles per hour in 13.23 seconds.

He established a new record for the kilometre on the southward run of 271.802 miles per hour in 8.187 seconds and on the northward run of 271.472 miles per hour in 8.24 seconds, at average of 271.636 miles per hour in 8.223 seconds.

KIANGSI "REDS" IN FLIGHT

SCATTER INTO NEIGHBOURING PROVINCES

Nanchang, Feb. 12.—The main forces of the "Reds" under Chu Te and Mao Tse Tung have fled to Kwangsi, and Shaowu, north-western Fukien, from Lichuan, eastern Kiangsi, after suffering repeated reverses at the hands of the Government forces. Both Tauchi and Lichuan, near the Kiangsi Fukien border, are expected to be occupied by the Government troops momentarily.

General Chiang Kai Shek, President of the Military Affairs Commission, is paying close attention to the rehabilitation of the recaptured districts. For the last two days he has been in close conference with Mr. Chang Nan-hsien, Chairman of the Party and Political Affairs Committee, General Tsao Hao Sen, Chief-of-Staff to the Bandit-suppression Headquarters at Hankow, and General Hsiung Shih Hui, Chairman of the Kiangsi Provincial Government, in order to draft measures for the rehabilitation of the areas and for the institution of self-defence by the people.—Kuo Min.

RECONSTRUCTION IN KIANGSI

THREE YEAR PLAN

Nanchang, Feb. 12.—The Kiangsi Provincial Department of Reconstruction is drafting a three-year programme for industrial development in Kiangsi. The plans include the opening of farms and ranches, establishment of an experimental brewery station, development of the forests at Hwangkung (north-western Kiangsi), opening of agricultural experimental stations and tea plantations.

Steps will also be taken to exploit the coal mines at Yukun (north-eastern Kiangsi) and Tienho (western Kiangsi). To facilitate communication services, a long-distance telephone system will also be installed.—Kuo Min.

U.S. BUSINESS CONDITIONS

SUMMARISED BY ASIA LANDS, LTD.

Banking troubles in Michigan put an effective damper on the recovery in New York, with leaders down as much as 4 or 5 points on Tuesday. Speculative dangers loomed the market on Wednesday, the Utility issues recorded declines despite the fact that American Tel. & Tel. declared its regular dividend, as speculation for lower rates, particularly in New York state, became more urgent. Thursday was marked by another setback due to the absence of encouraging business and political news. Industrial movements showed positive results, and provided some basis for judging the prospects for seasonal activity this spring. Electric power output increased considerably over the preceding week, and steel output has gained by one percentage point. With interest rate upon bank balance approaching the vanishing point, money is unprecipitously easy. Until, however, the corporate earnings factor becomes favourable and assistance, the effects of these financial fundamentals should be greater upon bonds than upon equity shares, the movements of which are so greatly swayed by technical factors.

CRICKET NOTES

THE CLUB IMPROVE THEIR POSITION

During the annual meeting at the Race Course, cricket usually falls a little into the background of popular interest. On Saturday last however the First League match down for decision was full of interest. If the Club either lost or drew they were definitely out of the hunt—while a win would give them a chance. Actually they won pretty easily and now have four wins and two losses—which means that they are six points below possible. Their chances are not rosy but, if they can beat the University to-morrow, of which more anon, they will add a tremendous kick to the contest between K.C.C., the Indians and the University, while they might turn up near the top if results went contrariwise for the other people.

The Play.

Last Saturday saw about the fastest wicket there has been yet on the Club ground and the ball was apt to fly about a little. The Army had a week side out. There were at least five players who have not, I believe, played in Senior Division cricket before. Williams of whom much had been hoped, will not be playing cricket, this season at all events. Cricket is unlucky out here—for not only does it have to compete with football, but the Hunt rides in the Cricket Season, a thing unheard of at home—except for cubbing towards the end, perhaps. Duckitt played a typical innings, defending very stolidly—I know I should use the word "dour" but Reuter seems to have cornered it for the Tests—but playing good cricket. Mitchell, who was bright but lucky, stayed to put up forty-eight for the first wicket and then Hayward saw the century up. Then, as the Army skipper put it, "we tried our other bowler." He bowled Tom with a long hop. Witham fell to a half-volley which he hit all round, and Marion was bowled by a good 'un. The three wickets fell at a hundred and seven. But there the Army success ceased.

Pearce and Duckitt—and Extras—took the score to a hundred and seventy-one without further loss and then the closure was applied. Garthwaite's leg trap did not come off and mention should be made of one tremendous six of Pearce's. The wicket was pitched well over on the Queen's Road side and he hit the ball fully as high as the Club. When the Army batted Stocker and Walker put on twenty-four for the second wicket, and then all was soon over. Beck was flying but a good bit, and had a couple of lucky wickets. The last that got Garthwaite hit his thumb, and on to his shoulder and bounced on to Duckitt at short leg, while Raikes was also out off his thumb. On a bad wicket Beck is definitely dangerous. Reid had failed to find a length but Owen Hughes found his, and, as usual on the occasions when he does so, bowled very well, to take five for twenty-six. The Club won by a hundred and three runs. The fielding, I hear, was poor, and slip for the Army and Cover for the Club put down dolly catches.

Volunteers and Kowloon.

As usual the Volunteer team is taking advantage of the Race Week to play mid-week fixtures and on Sunday and Monday there was a most enjoyable game at Kowloon. It must be frankly admitted that the bowling was not too good on either side. The Volunteers batted first and thanks chiefly to S. V. Gittins (119), A. C. Beck (48), J. D. Kilbee (40), and G. E. R. Divett (38) they put up three hundred and fourteen runs in their first innings. To this K.C.C. replied with two hundred and thirty-nine. With the exception of E. F. Fincher and Skinner all made runs. Eight of the Volunteers had a go with the ball but Beck and Divett alone did much. The Volunteers, left with a lead of seventy-five runs rattled up a hundred and nineteen, with Richardson top scorer with thirty-three. I rather doubt if the K.C.C. were in serious danger. They put in all their hitters first, and tried for the runs, but Beck and Divett were too good for them. By the time that they had lost seven wickets for twenty odd runs they decided that the runs could not be obtained and E. C. Fincher and Stapleton played out time. Towards the end all the Volunteers, with the exception of Potter behind the stumps, were given a short turn with the ball, but no budding talent was found to be blushing unseen. The game was a most enjoyable one, even if the standard of the Cricket was not abnormally high.

Tuesday's Game.

The Borderers took on the Volunteers on Tuesday on the Club ground but proved no match for them. Captain Wales was a notable absentee, as he has just left the Colony. He has not perhaps played as much first League Cricket as many people but he has done a tremendous amount of work for regimental and Army Cricket. Archie Hamilton was also away, and the side were all out for two runs under the century. The Volunteers started out with the idea of scoring quietly but lost a couple of wickets early, and thereafter let the runs come as they would. They won very easily.

An Exciting Match.

The game on Wednesday was, however, the growing glory of the "cricket meeting" if I may so term it. The Navy managed to get going and rattled up two hundred and forty-nine in just about two hours. They seemed well on the way to a win when Yates opened splendidly with the new ball, and clean bowled Richardson with one that swung up from leg, and hid with a break-back. He also got F. S. W. Smith for a duck and flicked Mitchell's off bail with a beauty that came in a lot. But there successes rather finished and a magnificent stand between Harley and Kilbee put an entirely new complexion on the game. The former played excellent and stylish cricket, but seemed content with a draw. Kilbee, on the other hand, went out for the runs and hit at most things. He was disposed of when there were still seven runs wanted and one over to go with two wickets to fall. A very sporting arrangement was made to play on as the light held fairly and either side might well win. At six-twenty-five the Volunteers pulled it off without losing another wicket. A sporting match in which the losers have as much credit as the winners.

To-morrow's Games.

As I have said, the match between the Club and the University at Kowloon is an important one. If the Club win they should have the ghost of a chance left. If not they are out of it while the University will be in a strong position if they win. They lack Anderson and this may make a big difference in morale as well as ability as I do not think they have a very outstanding substitute. At the same time it is simply hopeless trying to prophesy about the Club. Hayward is not playing and I believe Pearce is a doubtful starter.

The I.R.C.

I refuse to believe that the Indians will fail to beat the Army outright, at Sookpoo. I don't know the exact Army side but it will be one of the surprises of the game if they win—or even draw. But, after their reverse, nothing but a definite win is much good to Rum-jahn and his men.

Another Needle Match.

At the K.C.C. the home side most Craigengower in a League match and it is a most important thing for them to obtain the full points. They should do it—they are a very good side, but you never know with Craigengower. I feel we have not seen the best of them yet, and if Omar and Robert Lee get going they

SCOTTISH CUP DRAW

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY]

LONDON, Feb. 22.

HAVING played through eleven rounds of the F.A. Cup Competition, Brighton were eliminated by West Ham to-day in the Fifth Round Proper replay.

The Third Division side put up a great fight in London and at the close of the normal period of play, no goals had been scored. West Ham obtained the winning goal in extra time.

In the other replay, Birmingham proved too strong for Middlesbrough.

A number of league matches were also played to-day, the one real surprise being created by Sunderland, who defeated Leeds United at Elland Road.

The Arsenal shared four goals with Derby County at Derby. Results:—

SCOTTISH CUP DRAW

Can Motherwell succeed where the Rangers failed was the question which was asked as soon as the Scottish Cup draw was made known to-day. Their match at Kilmarnock, four cup-fighters of old, provides the tit-bit of the fourth round draw, which resulted as follows:—

Albion Rovers	v. Celtic
Hibernians	v. Hearts
Kilmarnock	v. Motherwell
Clyde	v. Stenhousemuir

Matches to be played on March 4.

SHANGHAI PAPER HUNTERS' CLASSIC.

CHALLENGE CUP BACK TO OLD POPULARITY

Shanghai.—Chief interest in the Paper Hunt Club's annual race meeting, to be held, weather permitting, on Saturday, February 25, centres round the Challenge Cup, and the altered conditions of the race look like bringing back this most sporting of races to its old-time popularity, writes "Kept Out," in the North-China Daily News. The present conditions make it open to "Y" Class ponies only, "Y" Class winners of hunts or the first "Y" on the card being qualified. There are now twelve ponies qualified.

Crack steeplechasers such as Neutrality, Joe Beckett, and Don Rial have failed to qualify by the closest of margins, and the absence of these goods ponies, also Bunny and Glen Dochart, makes the race very open indeed, with, however, a lot of talk of the chances of Pink Ticket, who ran exceedingly well over the Challenge Cup distance in the Grand National at Shanghai last autumn. He will be ridden, I hear, by young Wade, who piloted him before.

A Wise Decision.

The wisdom of the Stewards of the club in altering the conditions of the race is shown by the fact that there are already seven ponies mentioned as probable starters. Last season there were only two starters, both "Z" Class ponies. Following are the qualified ponies and probable riders:—

*Silver Pheasant (grey, 13.1) F. E. Harris.
*X-Ray (grey, 13.1)—Discarded Dick (grey, 13.1) H. Matland.

Great Movement (brown, 13.0) W. H. S. Davis.
Ben Dochy (black, 12.3) A. J. Strijevsky.

Crazy Fellow (bay, 13.1) W. L. McCann.
Sandwich (grey, 13.0) A. Ferguson.

*Zakouska (grey 13.2)—Pink Ticket (bay, 13.0) L. H. Wade.

*Victory Mary (grey, 13.2)—Redstart (grey, 13.0)—Conference Eve (brown, 13.2) R. N. Harris.

Other Jumping Races.

The other steeplechases are the over-popular Jorrockes Cup, open to "Y" Class maidens only, and the Stewards Cup. That wonderful jumper, The Horseman Hero, is qualified to start in the former, and, though there are grave doubts as to his staying ability, he looks very fit, and must go close. He has been going great guns with the Master in the country, and nothing would be more popular than a win for the gay patchwork jacket. There is also the "Z" Class Champions, a flat race over 1½ mile, for a cup kindly presented by lady members of the Paper Hunt Club.

Second Vehicular Ferry on Trial

SERVICE TO COMMENCE ON MARCH 1

PROVISIONAL SCHEDULE OF FARES

The Man Kim, the second vehicular ferry-boat of the Hong Kong and Yaumatei Ferry Company, to be completed went through her official trials in Kowloon Bay yesterday afternoon.

The ferry boat was again loaded to its full capacity, with 130 tons of pig-iron, and, on leaving the Kowloon Docks the boat made for Kowloon Bay where she covered six runs over the measured mile. On each occasion she equalled the contract speed of ten knots, the best run being at 10.56 knots. After the trial the vessel was put through her maneuvering tests which she negotiated with every success.

The s.s. Man Kim, which interpreted into English means "Public Economy," is identical to her sister ship the Man Kung (Public Welfare), which was tested two weeks ago, the details being published in the Daily Press.

The four Gardner diesel motors each developing 400 h.p., again proved themselves to be wonderfully efficient, smooth and absolutely vibrationless.

Among those on board were Mr. Lau Tak Po, Managing Director of the Hong Kong and Yaumatei Ferry Company, and Mr. H. H. Scott, of the Hong Kong and Whampoa Dock Company, and a number of representatives of engineers, from the Royal Naval Yard, Hong Kong Marine Surveyor's Office, and a number of friends.

The Man Yeung, the third ferry boat of the Hong Kong and Yaumatei Company, which is being built at the Kowloon Docks is nearing completion and it is hoped to have her ready for her official trials sometime in March.

Services to Start in March.

We are informed that the s.s. Man Kung, first of the vehicular ferry-boats to be completed, will commence a half-an-hour service on March 1, for first class passengers and motor vehicles. It is hoped to have the weighing bridge and approach traffic roads to the two piers at Hong Kong and Yaumatei respectively ready by that time.

As soon as all three ferry-boats are in service the Company will operate a 10 minute passenger service between Hong Kong and Yaumatei and a 20 minute service for motor vehicles. Later on if the service is well supported by the public the Company contemplates building a fourth vehicular ferry-boat, and to operate a 10 minute vehicular ferry service.

It is understood that the Company are spending $1,800,000, the cost of the three vehicular ferry-boats being $600,000 each.

The Fares.

The following are the fares which the Company hoped to offer at the commencement of the service:

Bicycles, 10 cents each; motor cycles, 20 cents each; motor cycle combinations, 50 cents each; cars under one ton 60 cents; over one ton, 90 cents; over two tons $1.50 and 60 cents for each additional ton.

PASSENGERS.

Departures.

The following passengers left by the m.s. Tabata Maru sailed on February 22 for San Francisco and Los Angeles via Shanghai, Japan ports and Honolulu:—Mr. Oskar Franz, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Irwin, Canadian Legation to Japan, Mr. Delalande, Mr. T. A. Boncher, Mr. A. Muto, Mr. K. Ando, Mr. S. Negami, His Holiness Count Kozui Ohtani, Mr. K. Harada, Mr. M. Yamamoto, Mr. H. Tiefenbacher, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Sword, Mr. Jiro Fujikura, Capt. C. G. Prior, Col. P. R. V. Steward, Mr. C. V. Stair, Mr. J. Cahen, Mr. V. MacEwan, Mr. Z. Sudzuki, Capt. and Mrs. R. C. Thomas, Major and Mrs. J. D. Derrick, Miss D. Johnston, Mr. Sou Lin Ki, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Byas, Miss Fuku Hara, Master Mineo Hara, Mr. Ta Van Nha. To U.S.A. or through to Europe: Mr. E. Himsforth, of P.W.D., Hong Kong; Mr. W. M. Thomson, of Sect. C.A.; Mr. Thomas H. Gibbins, merchant; Madam De Saint-Maurice from Hanoi; Mr. Harry Byrnes and Miss Alice Byrnes, Hotel and Club Manager at Los Angeles, going home; Mr. Arnold Freiser, round-the-world passenger, going home; Mr. J. F. Benson and Mr. W. Juker, both round-the-world tour from San Diego; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Shapiro, round-the-world tour from New York.

might whistle the Kowloon cracks out for short of a hundred, judging by the success the Civil Service bowlers had for a bit some time ago. Frankly I don't expect Craigen-gower to win, but if K.C.C. bat first they might make a draw of it. The C.S.C. and Navy have no fix-ture.

L'Envoi.

And so, as far as I am concerned, ends the Cricket season of 1932-1933. When these three League matches are being played I shall probably be suffering the worst pangs of seasickness complicated by feeling off-parties! I am very glad however that I have persuaded that keen and able cricketer, Mr. E. Craigen-gower, the thing that follows, is know, the thing that follows, is know, the thing that follows, is know.

H. K. C. C. TENNIS TOURNAMENT

CASSUMBHOY CREATES FIRST SERIOUS UPSET

BEATS LAI IN STRAIGHT SETS

TAM ELIMINATES GOLDMAN:
INTERPORTERS TO MEET

[By SALADIN.]

In the resumption of the tournament yesterday, after a break for the races, the results of the Open Singles Championship matches had somewhat electrifying effects, which will undoubtedly influence the competition in the concluding stages, especially in the struggle for the final position in the bottom half. By far the most important result proved to be the success of Cassumbhoi over Lai Kwong Tsun last year's finalist in the Malaysian Championship. In accomplishing it, the young Indian player has not only created the first serious upset so far but also placed himself in an advantageous position to enter the semi-final, having now to meet the winner of the tie between Lu Tak Cheuk and D. S. Green. The former will very probably win, and as Cassumbhoi has beaten him previously, and is acknowledged to be the most formidable of the newcomers who by beating Armstrong yesterday has qualified to meet S. A. Rumjahn, the holder.

Tsui Wai Pui,

the better player, it is likely that the Indian will qualify for the semi-final for the first time in his career. Another interesting feature of yesterday's competition turned out to be Tam Yoo Fong's victory over Goldman, and as the Hanoi finalist has in his debut into the championship, also beaten Yew Man Kit, another experienced player, his supporters are pretty hopeful of his prospects against M. W. Lo, who will, in all probability, beat F. N. Wong to-day. Materialisation of those hopes will place him into the semi-final.

Hazell Progresses.
Denis H. Hazell contributed to the day's excitement by rendering J. W. Leonard hors de combat. The latter started favourite, but was cleverly outplayed by the only Wimbledon player in the tournament.

Denis H. Hazell, who has progressed to the third round of the Open Singles Championship and possesses a fine knowledge of the game.

ment, who showed a good appreciation of the finer points of the game. The winner now meets Ho Ka Lau in the third round.

S. A. Rumjahn and Tsui Wai Pui qualified for the fourth round, as expected, and will now meet each other for the right to enter the semi-final.

Cassumbhoi Overcomes Nervousness.

When Cassumbhoi opposed Lai yesterday, most people expected to see him nervous, but for the first time in his career in an important match, he did not at any stage show any sign of it. He played a brainy game throughout, matched his opponent at steadiness, at which the latter excels, and smartly took the initiative at opportune moments, when his aggressive tactics upset the Chinese.

The match was well fought out, however. That Cassumbhoi won in straight sets was due to the fact that he was right on the top of his form. Lai started well and as the match progressed the struggle for points became very keen. The Indian's accuracy, however, obviously disconcerted him, and as he could not gather many points on his opponent's errors, his limited repertoire of strokes proved a decided handicap. Another disturbing element was that Cassumbhoi is a left-handed player, which contributed in a minor degree towards the Indian's ultimate success, and where ordinarily Lai could have directed his attack to an opponent's backhand; Cassumbhoi received it with his forehand, so that the Chinese found it difficult to anticipate the Indian's returns.

Sharper Judgment.

Cassumbhoi's control of his nerves enabled him to be sharper in his judgment. He lost the minimum number of points possible by wild hitting, and in fact throughout adopted defence as his chief tactics, but asserted himself in a way worthy of a champion when there were opportunities for attack. His superior stroke production stamped him out as the better player, and seldom has Cassumbhoi employed his strokes so advantageously as he did yesterday. In fact he appeared to be controlling his racket as well as he controlled his nerves.

Played on the whole reached a good standard. Lai's capacity for retrieving difficult shots and Cassumbhoi's determination to remain steady made the struggle for points interesting, so that long rallies became the chief feature of the match, but Cassumbhoi's enterprising tactics relieved the monotony of the long rallies and enlivened the progress of the match—much to the delight of the large number of spectators present.

J. W. Leonard, who lost to Hazell yesterday.

Newcomer's Success.

Tam Yoo Fong showed up to even better advantage yesterday against Goldman than against Yew Man Kit in the previous round. The newcomers again demonstrated his ability to break up his opponent's game, as Goldman after a stern resistance in the opening set cracked up badly in the second to enable Tam to win in straight sets. The first set produced a series of snappy forehand driving duel, at which both proved to be in form, although the Chinese placed his shots, which had plenty of sting, more cleverly and consistently.

Goldman's efforts to force the pace did not meet with success, as Tam was able to retaliate with impunity, but when the score reached 4-2 in the first set, the former brought his tournament experience to bear, by cleverly drawing his opponent to overhit—an obvious weakness of the newcomer. Goldman at this stage also effected some good netplay, with the result that he took the lead at 6-4. An exciting struggle followed, but at 6-all Tam forged ahead to take the first set.

Goldman seemed upset at this reverse and attempted to outplay Tam at the net, but the Chinese passed him repeatedly in the first three games of the second set by a barrage of pretty drives. The latter maintained his pressure and did not encounter much resistance from his opponent, who only took one game.

Long Struggle.

In another match, Hazell did very well to beat Leonard, who started favourite, by the odd set. The winner played with determination, and while the latter proved capable of saving difficult

LOCAL FOOTBALL

R.A.M.C. BEAT R.A.S.C.

The Royal Army Medical Corps engaged the Royal Army Service Corps in a football match at Happy Valley on Wednesday, and beat them by one goal to nil. The match was played under the auspices of the Hong Kong Area Football League, and was a fairly fast and even one. No goal was registered in the first half, but in the second half, the Medical Corps scored the one and only goal of the match, after being on the aggressive for the greater part of the game.

NEW PUBLISHING SOCIETY IN PARIS

Paris.—A society for publishing rejected manuscripts has been founded in Paris. The object of the organisation is to assist authors whose books have been refused by publishers, and who are unable to print them at their own expense. The manuscript must have been rejected at least twice, and be approved by a committee of novelists and critics. It is planned to publish two books a year to begin with, and more, perhaps, later. The authors of the scheme believe that in spite of the spate of literature many lights of genius are being prevented from shining by the lack of discernment and venality of publishers who think only in terms of best sellers.

A large number of manuscripts have already been received, the majority of which, no doubt, will be rejected. The question therefore arises whether a second society should not be founded for publishing the books refused by the "Refused Books Society," and so on, until all the languishing manuscripts have found a home.

shots, Hazell after losing the first set, smartly outplayed him in the next two sets, which produced many long rallies.

Favourites Forge Ahead.

S. A. Rumjahn beat Hachiuma in straight sets and now qualifies to meet Tsui Wai Pui who won his match against Armstrong in straight sets also.

In the only Open Doubles match, Lu Tak Cheuk and Lu Tak Lam beat their compatriots Ng Kam Chuee and Tsui Ping Fan by the odd set. In the final set, the losers pulled up from 0-4 to 5-4 in their favour, but could not hold their opponents any further.

GREAT BRITAIN AND SHIPPING

REDUCTION OF THE SUEZ CANAL DUES URGED

London, Feb. 16.—A plea for the further reduction of the Suez Canal dues was made by Mr. W.
J. McAlister the new president, at the annual meeting of the United Kingdom Chamber of Shipping held in London to-day.

Quoting statistics showing the risk of loss of life by fire on British ships to be under 0.0003 per cent., he remarked that more than one out of every five ships in the world had been laid up by shipowners.

The United Kingdom were not responsible for the present excess of tonnage, he added, as their tonnage was the same as pre-war, while the tonnage of the rest of the world had been doubled—largely by State action.

The vicious circle of shipping subsidies must be broken, and it was clearly essential that the whole question should receive early attention, Mr. McAlister remarked.
The level of tariffs still maintained against the United Kingdom by some Dominions was a very grave impediment to trade.

The Conference unanimously passed a resolution expressing its self in full accord with the policy of the Government in using the forthcoming World Economic Conference to promote the re-establishment of world trade and prosperity and urging the need of "a final settlement of war debts, the restitution of international trade including prohibitions, quotas and exchange restrictions."

The resolution also asks for the removal of all forms of flag discrimination, including subsidies in the world freight market, the removal or modification of protective tariffs and the taking of all such other steps as may help to restore the flow of international trade based on an exchange of commodities.

SHIPPING MOVEMENTS.

A representative of the Hong Kong Daily Press yesterday visited the Hong Kong & Whampoa Docks and was much interested to see the Empress of Japan in the dry dock just as the water was being let into the dock to float the steamer, after it having been thoroughly overhauled and repainted by the Dock Company. He was told that the Empress of Asia which was at one of the Company's wharves nearby would be immediately floated into the dock for overhaul after the removal of the Empress of Japan.

Doubtless many people would be amazed to see the extensive plant of the Hong Kong & Whampoa Dock Company and to know how well they are equipped for handling such large vessels.

JEAN HERSHOLT INVENTS CELLULOID EYE-GLASSES

Eye-glasses of celluloid have proven the answer to the film camera-man's dream.

They are the invention of Jean Hersholt, so far as their application to cinematography are concerned, and have solved a problem of long standing.

Formerly, when character actors have worn spectacles, reflections of light have made lenses impossible, and so only rims, without glass,
could be used.

Hersholt, making up for his role of the old German grocer, in Unashamed, had lenses made of celluloid, and "dulled" enough to give them a non-reflecting surface, though they still were transparent.
They can't "shoot" reflection of light into the camera lens—and still the eyes can be seen through them.
Which, cameramen say, is almost as important a discovery as that of panchromatic make-up.

The new picture, which Harry Beumont is directing, is an original screen story by Bayard Vellier,
New York playwright and author of Paid, The Trial of Mary Dugan and other hits. Helen Twelvetrees plays the principal feminine role and Robert Young, Jean Hersholt, M. J. Fox, and others are in the cast.
